Profile

Jonathon has a broad national practice in commercial and public law and over 17 years of legal experience as a barrister and commercial lawyer. He is also a member of the English Bar (Lincoln’s Inn) and the New York Bar. He commenced practising as a lawyer in 1999 for the pre-eminent international law firm, Sullivan & Cromwell, in New York.

He is regularly briefed by leading national and international law firms to represent clients in large and complex commercial disputes in a range of courts and tribunals around Australia.

Jonathon has particular expertise in international arbitration and private international law and has been engaged by a number of leading law firms to appear and advise in several large international arbitrations, including where the seat of the arbitration is in Singapore. He is a Fellow and Director of ACICA and has represented that peak arbitral body in its amicus interventions in the High Court of Australia in Westport v Gordian and TCL Air Conditioner v Judges of Federal Court of Australia.

Jonathon has also acted as an arbitrator (appointed under the ACICA Rules) and was recently appointed as panel arbitrator for NBN Co. Jonathon is also listed as a leading arbitration barrister in the Doyles Guide to the Legal Profession (2017).
