

Dear Sir / Madam

I understand it is proposed to increase the per kl usage rate charged to households using between 151kl and 350kl.

My elderly parents live with me so there are currently seven family members residing in my household (four adults and three children). My household's total water usage is therefore greater than that of a smaller 3 or 4 person household, even though the usage by each member of my family is I think below the individual average. An increase in the usage rate which applies above a certain level of consumption will be unfair and discriminatory to households like mine unless an adjustment is made for the number of people in the household. (Note this unfairness exists in the current water pricing structure - and would be made worse by the proposed increase in rates.)

I therefore request that any increase in usage rates be subject to an adjustment for the number of people living in the household.

Regards

Strati Gregoriadis
