(Issue of Data Sheets and Data Input Guide)

The Economic Regulation Authority today issued an update of the Electricity Compliance Reporting Manual along with data collection sheets and a data input guide.

These documents are available on the Authority's web site.

The data collection sheets are used to report operational and performance information to the Authority, including information required under relevant regulations and codes. The Authority will publish reports based on this information.

The main updated areas in the Manual are:

- inclusion of a reference to the Authority's publication of performance reports based on the information provided by licensees;
- clarification of reporting requirements for distributors and retailers based on the 2002 and 2006 Reports of the Steering Committee on National Regulatory Reporting Requirements; and
- insertion of the Western Power Access Arrangement service standard benchmarks following the recent approval of the utility's Access Arrangement.
