Electricity Networks Access Code 2004 Access Arrangement Information Guidelines

The Economic Regulation Authority has released final access arrangement information guidelines, which were prepared under the Electricity Networks Access Code 2004.

Under the Access Code, the Authority may publish guidelines on what must be included in access arrangement information so that the information complies with the Code.

Access arrangement information must enable the Authority, users and applicants to understand how the service provider developed elements of its proposed access arrangement, or revisions to its approved access arrangement, and form an opinion on whether it complies with the Access Code.

BACKGROUND

Interested parties were invited to make submissions to the Authority on draft access arrangement information guidelines between 19 May and 17 June 2008. Submissions were received from Western Power and Synergy which are available on the Authority's web site.

Revisions to the Guidelines

Access arrangement information guidelines will be amended from time to time and therefore comments from interested parties will be taken into account when considering future revisions. Any comments should be forwarded to:

In general, all submissions from interested parties will be treated as being in the public domain and placed on the Authority's web site. Where an interested party wishes to make a submission in confidence, it should clearly indicate the parts of the submission for which confidentiality is claimed, and specify in reasonable detail the basis upon which the claim is made.

The receipt and publication of any submission on the Authority's web site shall not be taken as indicating that the Authority has knowledge, either actual or constructive, of the contents of a particular submission and, in particular, whether the submission in whole or in part contains information of a confidential nature and no duty of confidence will arise for the Authority in these circumstances.
