Economic Regulation Authority Developing New Website

The Economic Regulation Authority has implemented the first stage towards redevelopment of its website. This website also supports the Western Australian Gas Disputes Arbitrator and the Energy (Gas) Review Board.

The redesigned site contains the same content, however significant enhancements have been made in the following areas:

- Uniform look and feel throughout the Authority's website.
- Common navigation items between the Authority's website areas.

The next stage of the redesign project will continue with ongoing development and enhancement efforts including better integration of areas on the website to include new functions for which the Authority is responsible.

We hope the new website serves to improve the Authority's web presence, information sharing, content management and content accessibility to the benefit of all the Authority's website users.

Please visit the Economic Regulation Authority website at www.era.wa.gov.au.
