Electricity, Gas and Water Licences: Application Guideline and Forms

The Economic Regulation Authority has adopted a new application guideline for electricity, gas and water licences. The guideline incorporates a new Licence Application Form and Licence Amendment Form.

The purpose of the new guideline is to provide guidance to organisations or persons seeking to apply for a licence to generate, distribute, transmit or sell electricity, distribute or sell gas or provide a water service.

The guideline aims to:

- describe the information required to support a licence application for applicants in the electricity, gas, and water supply industries;
- explain the process of approval the Authority will undertake with regard to granting an application, renewal, transfer or amendment of a licence; and
- set out the required licence application form to be provided by applicants.
