Draft Gas Compulsory Notice Guideline

Public consultation

The Economic Regulation Authority (ERA) is seeking public comment on our draft gas Compulsory Notice Guideline. The draft guideline outlines the process and obligations gas service providers and stakeholders have when issued with a notice by the ERA.

If the ERA has reason to believe that a person is capable of providing information, producing a document or giving evidence that the ERA requires for the performance or exercise of a function or power conferred on it under the National Gas Access (Western Australia) Law, the ERA may issue a compulsory notice to that person.

Interested parties are encouraged to provide comments on the draft guideline as it is intended to assist stakeholders in understanding and responding to compulsory notices. Accordingly, stakeholder feedback is important to ensure the guideline is clear, practical and fit for purpose.

Following consultation, the ERA intends to finalise and publish the guideline after considering stakeholder submissions.

Invitation for submissions

The ERA invites interested parties to make submissions on the draft gas Compulsory Notice Guideline.

Submissions close 4:00pm (WST) Monday, 31 August 2026.

Submissions can be lodged online using the form on our Current Consultation webpage.
